(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Nov. 27.—Britain's Mediterranean fleet reported that it had engaged a strong Italian sea force at "extreme range" today and that it pursued as the Italians "retired at high speed" toward their base.

The admiral, which has asserted previously that the Italian navy had refused to come to grips with the British, said no information was available immediately on the outcome of the brief brush between the fleets.

A communique reported that the British encountered two Italian battleships accompanied by a "large force" of cruisers and destroyers shortly before noon.

Great Britain's far-ranging heavy bombers set fires at the Italian royal arsenal at Turin and raided Berlin, the London air ministry reported today, while her little ally, Greece, declared Italy's invasion armies were falling back in disorder with "broken morale."

The attack on Turin, it was said, "greatly increased" the destruction inflicted in a raid Saturday night.

Members of the British parliament heard Minister Without Portfolio Arthur Greenwood, in a debate on war production, admit that Britain is "far from being fully armed."

Leans On United States
But, he said, with United States aid "our increasing production in both quality and weight will finally crush the might of the dictators."

"I think that before very long, if the cordial relations between this country and the United States continue," he said, "North America will be a second arsenal . . . to make good any of our deficiencies."

Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin told the house that "between now and next June, there will be another enormous call up of Britain's manpower for the fighting services."

In this connection, it was recalled that British officials have predicted Britain would take the offensive in 1941.

The Italian high command, in its daily communique, declared:

"On the Greek front, normal reconnaissance and patrol activities are reported. Our air force carried out continuous actions against enemy preparations and troops. Flying fields at Ioannina were bombed."

"A new fort, Port Wharves and the heights of Corakiana on the (Greek) island of Corfu were hit."

The Fascist communique also reported that Italian warplanes, in an attack on the harbor of the British naval base at Alexandria, Egypt, Nov. 19, hit six warships. Despite the arrival of fresh

King Winter Gives District Preview of Things to Come

This scene was enacted in Salem and many other cities in eastern and northern Ohio yesterday as the first snowy lash of King Winter whipped north central states, blanketing many sectors with the first deep snow of the season. The above picture shows shivering pedestrians battling the high, biting winds.

By Automobile

EAST PALESTINE, Nov. 27.—William Oliver, 56, of Enon Valley, Pa., became Beaver county's 29th traffic victim at 8 p. m. Tuesday when he was hit and instantly killed by a truck on Route 51, about 200 yards east of the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line.

Oliver, a WPA foreman, was a former resident of East Palestine and was returning home from a visit here when struck.

Pennsylvania state police, who exonerated the truck driver Howard L. Boyer, 28, of Lima, Pa., said the victim was walking too far out in the road. Coroner Harry McCarter of Beaver county, however, has not returned a verdict.

Boyer was attempting to pass another truck at the time, state police said.

Mr. Oliver was born in Pittsburgh. He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Agnes Courson of Ellwood City, Pa., Mrs. Regis Carr of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Walter Lewis of this city, Mrs. Harold Logan and Miss Lois Oliver of Columbiana; and three sons, Richard of Ellwood City, Charles of Enon Valley and William, Jr., of East Palestine.

The funeral will be held here at 1 p. m. Thursday at the VanDyke parlors. The rest of the service is incomplete.

SHARP TO QUIT
SCHOOL BOARDJudge-Elect to Submit Resignation, Probably Dec. 2

Atty. Joel H. Sharp, who was elected common pleas judge Nov. 5, disclosed today that he would resign as a member of the board of education, probably at the board's meeting Dec. 2.

The judge-elect has been a member of the school board for about 11 years, and vice president of the group of several years.

Although he rightfully could hold down the judgeship and still be a member of the board, Atty. Sharp said he felt that it would be best if the board appoint someone to take his place.

Pleads Not Guilty
In Shooting Case

LISBON, Nov. 27.—Miles Smith, Lisbon youth, charged with shooting with intent to kill, pleaded not guilty at a hearing before Mayor G. C. Rauch last night and was held to the grand jury under $2,000 bond.

This morning, however, Smith was brought before Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones, found guilty of parole violation and received a sentence of from one to 15 years in the Mansfield reformatory.

The court said that the defendant was placed on probation two years ago following implication in an automobile theft case.

The shooting charge was filed against Smith by Frank Satow of Wellsville. Satow told deputy sheriffs that Smith shot at him with a rifle when he chased the defendant away from a girl friend's house.

Poultry Tragedy
Takes Fifty Lives

Fifty lives were lost in a truck accident on Route 224, two tenths of a mile east of Berlin Center, at 4 a. m. today.

The lives were those of 50 chickens which were killed when the truck, driven by Barney DeOrto, 20, of Youngstown, went into a ditch and knocked down a telephone pole.

The chickens were owned by Chalmers W. Hamilton of R. D. 4, Salem, who was riding in the truck at the time. State highway patrolmen said the accident occurred when the driver fell asleep.

SEES BIG DROP
IN RELIEF LOADState Welfare Director
Predicts Approach to Minimum

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Nov. 27.—State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood forecasts a big drop in Ohio's relief burden during 1941 and, possibly, "approach toward its irreducible minimum."

He told officials of 100 Ohio cities assembled here that some new means of raising funds other than a real estate tax would have to be provided to finance relief costs which he said would be a permanent problem.

Sherwood said the state "might conceivably get through 1941 with relief costs between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000."

This compares with $25,000,000 for 1939 and $24,500,000 which he forecast for the whole of 1940.

Speaking before the Ohio League of Municipalities and the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of Ohio, Sherwood said the national defense program's stimulus to industry would take many employables off relief and soon he might "approach the irreducible minimum of unemployables."

He reported that Ohio's relief cases totalled approximately 76,000 on Nov. 1 and said they might drop to 50,000 by next July.

"People might as well realize that taxation of real estate as a source of relief funds is at an end," Sherwood warned the officials.

"Many cities have tried in vain to pass such levies. Municipalities must impress upon legislators that new means of raising money must be permitted."

The Rural Situation
He warned of difficulties in impressing rural legislators with cities' relief problems, citing that 60 rural counties in the state did not have to spend a cent of locally-raised funds for relief this year.

He expressed the opinion that the incoming state legislature would continue the program of matching city relief funds on a 50-50 basis.

The municipal officers' associations hold their annual banquet tonight at Daniel W. Hoan, national defense council's director of state and local cooperation, as the chief speaker.

Speaking specifically to youth at the First Presbyterian church's annual Father and Son banquet last night, Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchinson, president of Washington and Jefferson college, asserted that the trouble with the world of today is that there are many good minds and bodies but a shortage of good character accompanying them.

Education is not complete without good character, which comes from honesty, purity, and faith, he stressed, adding, "There are too many persons who have either education or character but too few who have a combination of both."

Dr. Hutchinson stated that real Christians do not fail in either category.

"The real way to honor Christ is to develop your mind," he said, "in the modern fields of science in order that you may become useful to civilization, and yet, remain respectful to the simple Christian ideals. Education and religion must absolutely go hand in hand for the making of a good world."

To exemplify his point, Dr. Hutchinson told of the present King Raza of Persia, how this physical specimen possesses such tremendous courage and skill but lacks any morals whatsoever.

Explained how this man, with his courage and strength, could become a true human benefactor if he only had moral, Christian ideals.

Preceding this address, the entire gathering joined in songs led by Rev. R. D. Walter. A turkey dinner was served by the November committee, headed by Mrs. Fred Campbell and the June committee, headed by Mrs. R. B. Carey, of the Presbyterian Women's association.

Rev. Walter served as toastmaster and E. S. Vincent gave the invocation. Two hundred attended.

The banquet committee consisted of Harry Wiant, chairman; Floyd McQuillan, scoutmaster; C. C. Ressler, superintendent of the Sunday school; P. N. Dilworth and F. W. McKee.

Dies In Kansas City

Will H. Hoffstott, aged about 70, former Salem businessman, died Sunday at his home in Kansas City, Mo., friends here learned today.

Mr. Hoffstott operated a book store and news agency here 50 years ago before moving west. After establishing his residence at Kansas City, Mr. Hoffstott, invented a lamp, had it patented, and became wealthy through its manufacture.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Dorothy; a son, William, and a sister, Miss Alice Hoffstott of Lakewood. Another sister, Maude, preceded him in death.

Reopen Query

LISBON, Nov. 27.—A special grand jury will reopen investigation of an $11,000 shortage in East Liverpool municipal funds soon.

Prosecutor Karl T. Stouffer said he would call the jury after Judge Lynn Griffith granted an indefinite continuance in the case of Anna McNicol, former East Liverpool city auditor's clerk, who was scheduled to have gone on trial Dec. 2 on a charge of embezzling $5,000.

Highways Reported
Ice-Covered

Forecasts of additional snow and temperatures hovering around the freezing mark promised little relief today to northern Ohio, gripped by its second storm in three weeks.

A third of the state's highways were ice-covered and snow lay two to four inches deep along the shores of Lake Erie. At least one death was attributed to slippery pavements.

An automobile skidded on an icy highway three miles west of Bellevue, collided with a truck, and killed Mrs. Rose Newton, 30, of Toledo. James Newton, her husband, was injured seriously.

Temperatures in many areas, including Cleveland, rose above freezing about midnight, making slush of the snow and sleet, but early today began to drop in accordance with the U. S. weather bureau.

Planes were grounded at most airports until after midnight and an airliner out of Omaha was ordered down at Cleveland.

At Cincinnati 1.14 inches of rainfall was recorded in 24 hours, with a temperature change of 33 to 48. Ice was reported as far south as Mount Vernon.

Falling barometers and a mist hanging over Lake Erie caused small craft and a few freighters to take shelter in the island area.

Some early morning temperatures: Cleveland 36, Toledo 30, Sandusky 33, Springfield 34, Cincinnati 40, Columbus 34.

The heaviest snowfall of the season blanketed eastern states today while colder weather overspread the middle west and flood waters inundated sections of Texas and Louisiana.

The snowstorm in the east began early last night in some sections and by midnight the fall ranged up to six inches in Pennsylvania.

Ice and snow covered highways slowed motor traffic in the east and central states. Air transportation was halted by swirling snow at New York, Boston and other eastern terminals.

Flood waters drove hundreds of families from their homes and caused extensive property damage in south and east Texas. The Panhandle region struggled to restore transportation and communication.

DOWNEY, Calif., Nov. 27.—The sprawling Vultee aircraft factory, its 12-day strike settled by a 16-month agreement providing for arbitration of workers' disputes, resumes operations today on its $84,000,000 worth of military contracts.

The agreement, signed last night by representatives of the company and the CIO union automobile workers, carries wage increases of some $14,000 annually for production men in the minimum pay bracket.

Richard W. Millar, Vultee president, said "it will take a little time to get the factory in shape for work resumption, but we probably can start some men back to work at once."

LISBON, Nov. 27.—Former Mayor Howard L. Kelley of Wellsville, who is now working in Cleveland, will go on trial here Monday as the result of a grand jury indictment, charging embezzlement.

Judge Lynn Griffith of Warren will hear the case.

Kelly was indicted after state examiners found a $580 shortage in his accounts. The former mayor made up the deficit and the examiners marked "no criminal intent" in their audit report.

Lack Of Jail Increases
Taxpayers' Prison CostsAuditor's Figures Show County Is Paying More for
"Room and Board" at Youngstown

Columbiana county taxpayers are paying more for keeping county prisoners in the Mahoning county jail at Youngstown than they would pay if the county had its own jail in operation at Lisbon.

This is the conclusion based on comparative figures from the auditor's office where the bills are approved.

Since last February 1, Columbiana county has paid Mahoning county $6,356.20 for "room and board," for this county's prisoners. And that's lodging and food only. It does not take into consideration any other item of expense.

This is about $300 less than the entire cost, for a nine-month period, for operation of the county jail in 1939, including all forms of expenditures.

The actual cost of maintenance of prisoners in the old county jail for 1939 was $5,901.36—that was for the entire year. However, repairs and insurance on the century-old structure constituted a big cost last year—an item that had been growing as the building grew older. Those two items amounted to approximately $700. Supplies and disinfectant (a large amount of the latter being necessary because of the condition of the building) cost $900.

Fuel and light bills ran into $1,200, bringing the total cost of operating the old prison to $8,892.85.

On a nine-month basis, it is repeated, this is about $300 more than the cost at present as represented by lodging and food.

However, the $6,356 stated above—the February to October bill—does not include transportation and associated costs, and the loss of business to Columbiana county merchants in the way of food and supplies.

For instance, it was necessary to expend $960 for a new automobile last February for the purpose of transporting prisoners to and from Youngstown.

In addition to that initial investment, there will be depreciation to be charged, as well as gasoline, oil, maintenance, etc., and eventually, the purchase of a new car.

Mahoning county receives 60 cents a day for the boarding of prisoners. According to the sheriff's office at Lisbon, prisoners were and can be fed in Lisbon for 34 cents a day.

Three Dismissed
The jail matron and two cooks have been dismissed from the Lisbon staff since discontinuance of the county jail, the former receiving $75 a month and the cooks $60.

The remainder of the force is still employed. The turnkeys, three of them, work eight-hour shifts, with a man on duty 24 hours a day to answer calls.

Deputies' salaries in 1939 amounted to $11,967.78, although something like $5,000 of this was spent for special deputies during the strike at the Summitville brick plant.

Miss Jean Frestone and Robert Heyn will be soloists. The former, a cornet player, will present "Carnival of Venice," while Heyn will play "Pompino" on the tuba. In addition to popular selections and marches, the band will also include two new numbers, "New Moon Overture" and "Mosquitoes Parade" in their program.

Draft Board Speeds

The Salem draft board today stepped up the issuance of questionnaires to draftees, mailing out 50 a day instead of the usual 25.

Clerk G. M. Griffith reminded the recipients that the forms must be filled out, notarized and returned to the board within five days. The board, whose chairman is John T. Burns, has established permanent headquarters in the Memorial building.

The incident resulting in the arrest occurred when Dinsio attempted to order Scott of his property while the latter was hunting. Dinsio obtained the license number of the car in which Scott rode away.

P-1—STACEY
The name of John Coleman, East Liverpool Republican, was certified to Secretary of State George Neffner today by the board of elections as winner in the clerk of courts race.

Coleman, the apparent winner on Nov. 5 over Carl L. Stacey of Columbiana, Democratic incumbent, was officially declared to have won when Stacey, at 7 p. m. Tuesday, called a halt to the recount which he had instigated.

The recount ended after 83 of the 112 precincts had been re-checked and Coleman led his opponent by 142 votes, 13 more than his original lead.

The Final Tally

The vote certified to the state today by the board of elections was: Coleman 20,448; Stacey 20,306.

This tally included the recount totals of the 83 precincts which were re-checked and the original count of the remaining precincts.

The recount of the 83 precincts gave Coleman 16,575 and Stacey, 15,613.

The previous tally of the other 29 precincts showed Coleman to have 3,873 and Stacey, 4,693, in these particular areas.

The recount cost Stacey $360, paying $5 a precinct in the 72 precincts in which no error showed up. The money will be turned over to the county general fund.

The precincts which were not counted are mostly in the northern part of the county.

Today also the board of elections ordered ballots printed for special elections in the West and Knox township rural school districts on Dec. 21, as requested by the township school boards.

Ask Levy Renewal

The election has been called for the purpose of voting on the renewal of a three-mill levy, for two years, for general operating purposes.

West township's five school buildings closed Monday due to failure of the levy to pass at the general election. Knox township schools are in session, however, the board operating on the strength of the levy's probable passage Dec. 21.

The special elections will be worked on the "economy plan," where four precinct workers will be on duty, instead of six, and paid $5 instead of $8.

Nurses to Sponsor

Salem trained nurses and others interested have arranged a benefit card and bingo party to be held Friday evening at the Memorial building. Funds from the party will provide materials, machines and other supplies for group sewing for war relief. The affair is open to the public. Play will begin at 8.

Miss Hazel Linn is general chairman of the committees, which include: Lunch, Mrs. R. T. Holzbach; Miss Lillian May and Mrs. Dallas Hanna; tickets, Mrs. F. R. Crowe; Miss Carmen McNicol and Miss Martha Wire; prizes, Mrs. Russell Limestone, Mrs. Fred Cope and Mrs. D. C. Carey.

Other nurses and people interested are members of the committees. The group sponsoring the party numbers about 75. Guests from Columbiana, Lisbon, Salem and Youngstown are expected. Tickets may be had at the door.

The third in a special series of "Wednesday Evenings at the Citadel" gatherings will be held by the Salvation Army tonight.

During this series, which will last throughout the winter months, special speakers and musicians will be secured to give Salem something different in the way of evangelistic meetings. Capt. Robert H. Barton says.

Brigadier William A. Spatig of Cleveland will bring the message at tonight's meeting. The brigadier, divisional commander of this district, is visiting Salem on an inspection tour.

The public is invited.

WASTING CITY MONEY

The city administration yesterday cost the taxpayers of Salem $4,455. By one decision—to give the contract for a new truck to the American LaFrance Co.—the board of control literally robbed the city treasury of that amount. By refusing to accept the lowest bid, it refused to save the taxpayers four thousand, four hundred and fifty-five dollars.

It may offer weak excuses, but its alibi never will satisfy the people of Salem. For two weeks, since bids were opened on Nov. 12, it has been mulling over these excuses, trying to justify a wanton waste of a large sum of money merely to satisfy personal desires. In the final analysis, the city's best interests never had a chance. The LaFrance was the choice before bids were received and regardless of the great differential in the prices submitted, it remained the choice throughout.

Is the LaFrance a better fire truck? It isn't. Did the other bidders come up to specifications? They did. Was the LaFrance guarantee better than the guarantee of other bidders? It was not as good as the lowest bidder. The latter offered a life-time guarantee and the successful bidder is not in a financial condition to even approach such an offer. The fire chief is familiar with the LaFrance equipment, having worked with it for many years, and possibly preferred it, but he did not make the selection and remained out of the picture as it was the official duty of the mayor, safety and service directors, constituting the board of control, to make the selection.

Aside from the saving in the purchase price that could have been made by accepting the lowest bid—and that loss represents more than a third of a mill for every taxpayer in the city—consideration could and should have been given to a bidder who has given a Salem manufacturing plant more than a million dollars in business. The Mack International Truck Corp., whose bid of $8,995 was $4,455 under the successful bidder, has been helping to provide employment in Salem by contributing that much business to the Mullins Manufacturing Corp. That in itself shouldn't have been the deciding factor, but, since the Mack truck is just as good as the LaFrance, it should have lent considerable weight to the decision of the board of control.

It will be recalled that the mayor asked city council some weeks ago, to make an appropriation for the purchase of a new fire truck. At that time, before any bids were sought or received, the amount specified by the mayor was $13,500. It is interesting in the light of that action to note that the LaFrance company's bid was $13,450, within $50 of the money appropriated.

Yes, there seems to be a peculiar odor about the whole mess.

ADOLF THE FRUSTRATED

Adolf Hitler's plan of German expansion, published in "Mein Kampf," calls for acquisition of territory to the east and southeast of the fatherland. This was to be made possible by alliances with Great Britain and Italy to immobilize France, which Hitler believed was the common enemy of Germany and Great Britain. With France taken care of, the little Balkan states would be pushovers.

When Britain chose to ally itself with France, the plan had to be revised. Part of the revision was a German alliance with Russia, something Hitler believed never should be done. He had nothing but contempt for Russians when he wrote "Mein Kampf"—and the Russians won't forget what he said about them when Nazi policy called for attacks on Communism.

As the only European power of any consequence left on the continent, Russia can make or break Germany's plan of hegemony over southeastern Europe. Hitler cannot afford now to fight the red army to get what he dreamed of in "Mein Kampf," just as he cannot afford to invade Great Britain to secure Germany's western front, now on the sea coast of France.

It is, consequently, of tremendous importance that Hitler's diplomatic drive seems to have bogged down with the signing of alliances with Rumania, Hungary and Slovakia, leaving Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Turkey outside the axis sphere. They have remained outside on the advice of Russia, presumably; they cannot afford to disregard Russia's point of view. If it prove to be Russia's point of view that Germany, cheated of victory over Great Britain, also must be denied away over the east, which Hitler has claimed as a German right, then the war soon must begin to take a different shape.

Its new shape will be that of a belligerent nation turned back on two fronts, stopped short of triumph, its leaders humiliated in the eyes of the people whose confidence they had won. Combined with the indifferent success of Germany's partner in arms, Italy, and the unexpected dominance of its unnatural partner in diplomacy, Russia, the loss of prestige, may prove fatal to popular morale. Germans suspected at the outset they were being dragged into another losing fight; they must feel that the odds against them now are even longer than they were when the war began.

CHECKS AND BALANCES AREN'T OUTMODDED

It's dynamite, as President Roosevelt discovered in the supreme court issue of 1937, to suggest there's anything horse and buggyish about America's fundamental beliefs. Another stick of dynamite may be placed on the White House steps shortly.

The Walter-Logan bill making findings of administrative boards (such as National Labor Relations board) subject to judicial review has passed the house and may pass the senate. New Dealers are fighting it tooth and nail, claiming it would cripple some of the streamlined agencies they have created. President Roosevelt may have to make the final decision on the bill.

One of America's fundamental beliefs concerns the value of checks and balances. Citizens of this country shrink at the thought of letting absolute power spring up anywhere in their midst. There always is someone keeping an eye on them, and they see no reason why politicians and jobholders shouldn't be second-guessed too.

At the same time, it is evident that existing courts would be cluttered up seriously if labor relations board cases, for instance, were to be appealed under the Walter-Logan bill. It has been proposed—and should be considered thoughtfully—that perhaps a new means of performing the check and balance function should be created to take care of "the new instruments of public power" developed by the New Deal. Any suggestion anywhere along the line that federal jobholders have become so modern they no longer are subject to a check or a balance can make the Walter-Logan bill the detonator for the loudest roar of protest Washington has heard since 1937.

THE LUNAR transits for this day indicate a rather erratic and peculiar trend of events in which much insight, strategy and shrewdness must be relied upon to avert difficult and disintegrating situations. These may suddenly arise from surprising and unforeseen sources, with disastrous and up-rooting velocity. They may affect business associations and surroundings, with intimate relations put to high strain.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year which may be a radical and revolutionary one, with sudden and peculiar adventures or experiences. These may uproot both environs and associates, plans and objectives, and seem to be quite devastating. However as the intuitions, ideals and mystical qualities are under benefic stimuli some happy inspiration or curious inner guidance, may sidetrack all dangers and disasters.

A child born on this day, while being erratic, impulsive, variable, restless and unaccountable, yet should be original, have good creative ability and have much subtlety, idealism and inspirational urges of high order.

So far as generally known Stalin and Hitler never sign agreements. Anyway, a dotted line would mean nothing between such dear friends.

Science is still a long way short of producing a turkey that is all white meat.

Health Tests For Army

Detection of Tuberculosis Important

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

In preparing for the physical examination of the men of our new army, undoubtedly special attention will be directed towards the detection of cases of tuberculosis.

This will be one of the really constructive results of the preparedness program. Most of the young men in whom tuberculosis is discovered will have no idea that they are otherwise in the best of health. This fact has been the most insidious and dangerous feature of the disease and the one which, more than anything else, has prevented the saving of lives and the eradication of tuberculosis.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Few Symptoms

If we get it in the early or incipient stage, we can nearly always cure a person with tuberculosis. The trouble in the past has been that it produces so few symptoms that it becomes well developed before anybody is aware that he is sick. The records are full of people who died of "a neglected cold" or something that "ran into tuberculosis." It didn't run into tuberculosis, the tuberculosis was there all the time but only in its late stages began to manifest symptoms.

The best method for rapid and accurate detection of the incipient case is by the use of the x-ray with the flat plate. Undoubtedly this method will be used by the army.

We rec'd a few weeks ago the experience at the New York World's Fair where a firm offered to take a flat plate of the chest for $1.00 of anyone who applied—in other words, an entirely unselected group of cases. The astonishing result was that 3.3 per cent of those who had the examination were shown to have tuberculosis in some stage or other.

X-Ray Plate New Development

During the last war the army boards used physical examination with a stethoscope; at least they did in the early drafts. The x-ray plate was not well developed in those days. I watched these boards work in noisy rooms under very unfavorable circumstances and I felt that they must have missed many cases.

If the plate method is used I am sure nearly all cases will be discovered and undoubtedly we will have to revise our statistical ideas about tuberculosis.

This method is typical of the endeavors of health authorities at case finding in any community. These endeavors on the part of the boards of health have met with considerable resistance. People do not like to think about the possibility and a wholesale examination is for that reason impractical. If it were done however, and those with tuberculosis were removed from households where other people might contract the disease from them, we would probably be taking the longest step towards the

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. There gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 10¢ and 25¢.

LEETONIA, Nov. 27.—The second annual football banquet sponsored by the Business Men's club and the Kiwanis club will be held at 6:15 this evening at St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Dave Williams of Youngstown, dean of boys at South High school, will be the guest speaker. Arthur W. Kipley is chairman of tickets sales, assisted by Ralph Kennedy, Glenn Powell, Jack Anglemeyer, C. S. Marshall, Thomas Frazier, Fred Fieding, George Woods and Harry Gintner.

Charles E. Thompson, music supervisor of Leetonia district schools, is ill at his home in Toronto. Mrs. Merle Davis is substituting during his absence.

Dale Smith returned to Baltimore Monday after several days' visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith. His sister, Miss DeBria Smith, accompanied him home for several days' visit.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Ramage of Cleveland were weekend guests of Mrs. Ramage's mother, Mrs. Laura Howell.

"I BELONG TO YOU" by ROSAMOND DU JARDIN

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

On the last night of his stay in Chicago, Griff took March to dinner at the penthouse of a friend. It was a gay party, not large, but composed of congenial people. The food was excellent, there was dancing to the music of a radio and the conversation was stimulating. March was enjoying herself thoroughly when Griff suggested that she permit him to show her the view from the terrace.

There was nothing wrong with the view. Lights below and stars above, all about the terrace the vague forms and fragrance of an exquisitely synthetic garden, infinitely removed from earth. The flashing lights made March think of Brent and of the night they had stood in the window of Clay Saunders' office, the night they had decided to marry. A rather romantic melancholy settled over her, thinking of Brent, missing him with the fervor of her love. At first she was scarcely aware of what Griff Morgan was saying. It was the touch of his hand, laid over hers, that brought her abruptly back to the present, that made her concentrate with growing uneasiness on Griff's impassioned words and the shaken, unnatural tones of his voice, uttering them.

This wasn't the Griff she knew at all, the cynical, amusing person who took nothing seriously, least of all himself. It was as though a stranger stood beside her, saying incredible things. Not quite a stranger, though, nor were his words wholly incredible. For Griff had been changing all this last week. Belatedly March faced the fact and, facing it, looked back with a sharp sense of self-blame at all the little signs she had ignored so lightly. A word here, a look there, Griff's hands lingering on her shoulders as he held her wrap. And she had been too smugly intent on her own affairs, too secure in her love for Brent, to notice what was happening.

It was this troubling sense of her own responsibility that made her voice gentle, breaking in on the hot flow of his words, begging, "Griff . . . Griff, you mustn't say such things, you mustn't even think them."

But Griff demanded, "Why not, my darling, when they're true? I've never been in love before. Once, years ago, I thought I was. Now I know the difference, I'm mad about you. You're inside of me, like a flame, warming me, making me alive."

March said, "No, Griff. No!" But he didn't hear her. He said, "Don't think I haven't fought against this—just as you're fighting. But it's bigger than we are. It shows up all our noble little resolves, the high-sounding 'Thou shalt nots' we set up to scare ourselves with, for what they are. All it takes to knock them down like so many ten-pins is a good breath of human feeling." His voice was husky, shaken. He said, "I thought marriage wasn't for me, that it was no good. Having someone marry you for your money at nineteen is pretty hard on illusions. But knowing you has changed all that. It's changed me, March. We should have met long ago, when you were free. Since we didn't, there's divorce."

March cut in sharply, "Divorce? You must be mad, Griff. I love my husband. I'm sorry you feel as you do. Please believe that. I thought we were—friends. I thought you looked upon me as I did you, someone who was congenial, someone to dance with and joke with, nothing more than that."

Griff said hoarsely, his hands creeping upward to her shoulders so that she winced a little under his hurting grip. "You can't mean that, March. You aren't serious. Surely you care."

"Not for you, Griff," March said clearly, unequivocally. "Not like that. I love Brent. I love him so completely it must have blinded me to what was happening." Her voice was gentle again, a mere thread of sound there in the dark, the stillness. "I'm sorry."

Griff said thickly, "Sorry!" He pulled her to him roughly, his mouth seeking hers. March struggled against that inexplicable embrace, begging, "Griff, let me go!" Panic gripped her and then, as his lips met hers in sheer conquest by strength, she ceased abruptly to struggle. She lay limp and quiescent in his arms while he kissed her hair and her warm throat where the quick pulse throbbled and then her mouth again, eliciting no response.

He gasped, putting her from him, "I can't reach you. I can't get near you." And then, accusingly, "What are you made of?" March stood there, still and straight in the moonlight, a kind of terrible white finality in her face. She said, her voice level, low, "Of course you can't reach me. I don't love you, Griff. And now you've destroyed even the liking I felt for you. I'm going now and I don't want you to come with me. I don't want to see you again. Ever, do you understand, ever!"

She left him standing there by the terrace rail, staring blankly after her. It was scarcely twenty-four hours later that March stepped off the train at Kenosha. Her decision to return so suddenly had been engendered equally by that scene with Griff and her sharp longing for Brent again. It was like a golden thread, that longing, tenuous and strong, drawing her back along the miles that separated them. And she was glad to be so drawn, reveling in the prospect of Brent's arms holding her close, his lips pressing hers, effacing the bitter memory of other kisses.

She hadn't notified him of her arrival. As on that winter night when she first came to Wisconsin, no one met her. But there the resemblance ceased. Tonight there were other passengers alighting, there were people all about and Main street was ablaze with lights. March got into one of the nondescript cars that served as taxis and asked to be driven to Abigail Randall's house.

The lighted windows, shining square and yellow through the pinetrees, seemed to beckon her. They seemed to say, Here is home. Here are all the things important to your happiness. Here are the people who matter. Here love lives. Here is work to be done, dreams to be dreamed.

In that moment and for the first time, March was consciously aware of these truths. And the memory of the slightly hectic gaiety of the days just past slipped from her like a willingly discarded garment. She thought, her heart singing, Why, I've changed. I'm different. I must tell Brent.

It was her going away and coming back again that had made her aware of the change within, that had opened her eyes to the quiet charm of this place, this mode of living. She must tell Brent that, too. A great impatience swelled in her, so that she sat forward on the extreme edge of the seat as the car swung onto the drive, halted. She pressed money into the driver's hand.

"Just set the bags on the walk. Thank you."

She was out of the car, up the steps quickly. Her hand was on the door-knob, the door was open. But the glad words on her lips were never spoken.

Brent sat there, alone, his back toward her. He hadn't heard the faint sounds of her coming. He was slumped forward, his dark head in his hands, desolation in every line of his long form.

March whispered, suddenly afraid, "Brent. . . . Darling, what's wrong? I'm home—"

Brent turned slowly, a kind of terrible incredulity in his face. Then he was on his feet, looming above her, his hands clenched at his sides. And there was hate in his black gaze, the awful, vulnerable hate that springs from betrayed love. His voice shook, saying, "So you did come back!"

March's words fell like pebbles into the pool of his silence. "You knew I'd come back, Brent?"

She could see that he was fighting for control over the emotions that seethed in him. A feeling of utter unreality gripped her. This couldn't be happening! It was senseless, causeless. . . . Brent was like some figure of vengeance, terrifying in his wrath, infinitely removed from her. Futilely she groped for understanding.

Brent said, his voice sarcastic, cruel, "That's right. You couldn't know I'd find out about your plans to meet Griff Morgan in Chicago! You couldn't know the same blind fool who kissed you good-bye wouldn't be waiting to welcome you with open arms."

March caught his wrist, but he flung her off as though her very touch sickened him. She said desperately, "Brent, I don't know what you've heard or who told you these lies—but you must listen to me! You must believe—" His brief laugh was like a slap, but March went on, "you must believe the truth. Griff was in Chicago. He followed me there. I hadn't the faintest idea he was coming."

"Will you deny you called him the morning you left?" Brent demanded.

March felt as though she were struggling through a nightmare. She said, "I called him, but not about that. Oh, Brent, why should I lie when I've done nothing wrong, nothing of which I'm ashamed? I've never lied to you. I never shall. You mustn't doubt me—" her voice

Talk On Pine Features Garden Club's Program

An interesting talk on pine and pine arrangements, by Mrs. Emmett R. Wood of Youngstown, and a display of novel and beautiful types of pine arrangements featured the meeting of the Salem Garden club Monday afternoon in the library assembly room.

Mrs. Charles McCorkhill was hostess and Mrs. G. T. Harding, program chairman. The tea, following the session and program, was in charge of Mrs. F. W. Koenreich.

The attractive tea table was arranged with damask cover and centerpiece of fruits and gourds.

Arrangements were made for the club's annual guest day and Christmas party to be held Dec. 16 at the Presbyterian church. A dinner at 6 p. m. will be followed by a special program. All members and their guests are invited to attend.

The following committees, to assume their duties at the first meeting in January, have been appointed by Mrs. H. E. Stiver, president: Delegates to the forum, Mrs. Russell Smith, Mrs. R. W. Broomall, Mrs. W. P. Davis and Mrs. John Smeltz; (departmental chairman) garden center, Mrs. L. B. Harris; horticulture and shut-ins, Mrs. W. H. Matthews; junior clubs, Mrs. Russell Smith, Mrs. G. W. McKee and Mrs. F. W. Koenreich; historian, Mrs. Charles Bets.

Program, Mrs. R. E. Miller, Mrs. Andrew MacLeod and Mrs. L. P. Koenreich; finance, Mrs. Stanton Heck, Mrs. H. E. Williams and Mrs. F. O. Heston; civic, Mrs. Burt Leeper, Mrs. E. Y. Howell, Mrs. W. F. Bolen, Mrs. L. P. Metzger, Mrs. H. C. Thomson and Mrs. Smeltz.

Memberships, Mrs. J. B. Atchison, Misses Edith Campbell and Helen French; sunshine, Mrs. J. A. Fehr, Mrs. D. U. Smith, Mrs. R. D. Painter, Miss Belle Golladay, Mrs. Don H. Montgomery and Mrs. Earl Rogers; publicity, Miss Esther Wilson and Miss Martha Wiro.

Telephone, Mrs. A. C. Yengling, Mrs. Fred Lewis, and Mrs. Harold Williams; transportation, Mrs. N. L. Reich, Mrs. R. M. Atchison and Mrs. P. C. O'Neill; entry, Mrs. R. F. White, Mrs. Harding and Mrs. R. T. Holzbach; hospitality, Mrs. F. A. Hoskins, Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. A. V. Smith; judging, Mrs. C. R. Votaw, Mrs. J. E. Bentley and Mrs. C. C. Miller.

Auxiliary Members Are Honored

American Legion auxiliary members whose birthdays are in November, December and January were honored at the meeting in the Legion home last night.

During the business session plans were discussed for the unit's annual Christmas work for the veterans' hospitals and homes and arrangements made for the unit's annual Christmas party for the members Dec. 10. A coverdish dinner and gift exchange will be featured.

Members are making window drapes for the recently remodeled downstairs rooms at the Legion home.

Mrs. H. F. Wyckoff, Americanism chairman, presented an interesting talk and display on the proper methods of displaying the flag.

The group will sew at the Legion home all day Dec. 5 for the Red Cross war relief.

The social hour, at which birthday guests were honored, was enjoyed playing "bunco," high score going to Mrs. Lloyd Knox. Guests were seated at one large table decorated with a birthday cake and lighted candles. Other members were placed at smaller tables. Mrs. C. C. Miller and her social committee were in charge.

Mrs. R. E. Smucker Tells of Trip

One of the annual features of the Travelers club program is the travelogue and motion pictures of her vacation, given by Mrs. R. E. Smucker. Yesterday, at the annual Thanksgiving tea in the library, members enjoyed her delightful account of her "Vacation Cruise," a trip to Jamaica, Central America and Panama.

The program also featured musical entertainment, piano selections by Mrs. Stanley Shoemaker and Mrs. Merle Davis of Leetonia. Tea was served by Mrs. Russell Gibbs and her social committee at a table arranged for the Thanksgiving season with centerpiece of fruit and miniature turkeys as favors.

Final arrangements have been completed for a public lecture on "The Monroe Doctrine and the Defense of the Americas" by Dr. George T. Hunt, history department head at Cleveland college. Western Reserve university in Cleveland, at the library assembly room at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Timely and authoritative, the talk will not concern merely the doctrine, but will open with a discussion of the policy, continue with an outline of the chief problems of war and trade which the U. S. government must meet in Latin America to defend the western hemisphere. The two defense problems, purely military and the one of economic defense against infiltration of elements which may lead to war eventually, will be discussed, as will the European war, as a background to the western hemispherical situation.

Musical Arts Club Has Program

Musical Arts club members and a guest, Russell Graber, were entertained at the home of Mrs. J. Herbert Yengling on Jennings ave. Tuesday evening.

Thomas Hulson was welcomed as a new member of the group.

The program included: Trombone and trumpet duets, "Over the Top" and "Debut March," by Russell Graber and his aunt, Miss Lela Naragon, accompanied by Homer S. Taylor; a review of Wagner's opera, "Siegfried," by Mrs. Robert Wentz; violin solos, "Traumerel" (Schumann) and "An Old Refrain," a Viennese folk song, by Mrs. Wilbur West, accompanied by Mrs. Lionel Smith; vocal solos, "Night Song" (Rittmeister) and "Loch Lomond," Scottish folk melody, Harold Ludwig, accompanied by Miss Margaret Kirkbride.

The Dec. 10 meeting will be held at the home of Miss Naragon at 636 Woodland ave.

Sorority Members At Hertz Home

Mrs. William Wagener and her associate hostess, Miss Mary Haldeeman, entertained members of the Omega Nu Tau sorority and guests at the Harry Hertz home on S. Lincoln ave. last evening.

The evening was spent informally and members played Scotch bridge. Miss Grace Kells and Miss Alice Hertz won the prizes.

Lunch was served by the hostess at an attractive table with a floral centerpiece and tall tapers at either end. Wax autumn leaves surrounded the bowl and the tapers.

Miniature vases were favors at each place.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 3.

Announcement Made of Marriage

Mrs. John Theiss will be chairman of the meeting and her topic will be "America for Christ." Hostesses will be Mrs. John Krauss and Mrs. John Pauline.

The plans will be completed for the Christmas party Dec. 18. All members are urged to attend an important business will be discussed.

Mrs. L. P. Metzger of E. State st. has arrived in Orlando, Fla., to spend the season.

Physician Discusses Care of Child

Progressive Mothers, at their meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Davis on E. Eighth st., heard an interesting and instructive talk on "Psychological Care of the Pre-School Child" by Dr. L. C. Ziegler.

The speaker discussed the psychological development of the child as a plan, progressing as the plan for physical development, and said that attempting to accelerate the psychological advance was useless, often leading to disturbance in the child.

Affection, attention and applause are psychologically necessary to the young child. Independence in the child begins, the doctor explained, after the first year when he begins to control and investigate his environment. Over-protection by parents is the worst fault many parents have, their excessive demands leading to a negativism in the child, developed in an attempt to overcome parental authority.

Insecurity in the child mind arises often from indifferent parents, some physical defect or parental incompatibility. Fear in children, beginning with the newborn's fear of loud noises and lack of support, continues through the five-year-old's stage of imaginative fears, most common of which is a dread of the darkness, the physician declared.

The program also featured piano solos, "Etude" (Wolffenhaupt) and "Impromptu" (Reinhold) by Miss Margaret Ann Jones.

Plans for the annual Christmas party for pre-school underprivileged youngsters at the Memorial building Dec. 21 were discussed. Mrs. Lester Lehman and the following committee will be in charge: Mrs. A. S. Greenamyer, Mrs. Leo Wachsmith, Mrs. J. J. Dornon and Mrs. Clarence Dickey.

Mrs. Allen Chandler and Mrs. C. K. Lewis were welcomed as new members of the circle.

Mrs. Dornon will be hostess at the Greenamyer home at the next meeting Dec. 10. The program, in charge of Mrs. J. P. Hochadel and Mrs. Davis, will feature a demonstration of the new eye-testing machine recently purchased for use in the schools, by Miss Lillian Schroeder, school nurse.

Plymouth Council Plans Party

Plans for a Christmas party following the business session Dec. 10 were completed by Plymouth council No. 183. Daughters of America, at a meeting in the Maccabee hall last night.

The party will feature a coverdish supper, bingo and a Christmas gift exchange.

Invitations have been extended to the East Palestine, Sebring and Lisbon council to attend the party.

Dinner Arranged

Division 2 of the Christian church ladies' group will have a turkey dinner Dec. 17 at the church. Reservations for parties at the event may be made by calling 3142.

Miss Golladay Heads Spencer Class

Miss Belle Golladay, new president, assumed her duties at a meeting of the Spencer class of the Presbyterian church at the home of Mrs. H. D. Hutterbower, N. Elsworth ave., last evening.

Mrs. W. D. King, retiring head, expressed her appreciation for the work of committees, chairmen and members during the past year.

Miss Maybell Huston, a guest, appeared on the program as clarinet soloist, playing several numbers.

The social hour featured lunch served by Mrs. Theodore Jewell, and her committee, including Mrs. Rachel Wanner, Mrs. George Haroff, Mrs. Clarence Means, Mrs. James Rea and Mrs. Mary Couborn. Forty members attended the meeting.

Cara Nome Members Entertained

Cara Nome club members and a guest, Mrs. Frank Gallagher, were entertained at the home of Mrs. Arthur Haessly on S. Union ave. last night.

Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. Catherine Hiddleston. The traveling prize was won by Mrs. Robert Tubbs.

Lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held Dec. 16 at the home of Mrs. Paul Dean on N. Broadway.

Miss Jean Vincent Club Hostess

Attic-ettes club, entertained last night at the home of Miss Jean Vincent on S. Union ave., welcomed Anna Mae Helman as a guest.

Lunch was enjoyed during the social program. The meeting on Dec. 11 will be held at the home of the advisor, Mrs. Gilbert Everhart, S. Union ave.

Local Lady Now Able To Do Her Housework and Gladly Recommends Ten Jon To Anyone Suffering

"Declares that She Suffered Much Agony from Stomach Disorders. Her Stomach Was in a Constant Gassy Condition. Disturbing Nightly Risings Were Frequent and Was Burdened With a Wornout and Sluggish Feeling."

"My condition was very run down and I had a discouraged feeling of life all of the time," states Mrs. Henry Cain of Mantua, Ohio, near Ravenna.

"I was extremely nervous and stomach disorders were constantly pestering me. I suffered miserably from severe attacks of indigestion, sourness, cramps, acid rising, a shortness of breath and near fluttering. Gas forming in my stomach was a great source of trouble. I was subject to dizzy spells and was bothered with painful gall bladder trouble. Sharp pains were always in my back and the back of my neck. Every night I would be called to leave my bed to relieve my kidneys of the discomfort. I was seriously constipated and headaches were common. I was handicapped with a poor complexion. I was burdened with a rundown and sluggish feeling."

"Although I have only taken TON JON a short time it has given me relief which nothing else was cap-

BRITISH BOMB ITALY, GERMANY

Italian Royal Arsenal at Turin Is Damaged by R. A. F.

Troops. Athens dispatches said, the Italians were abandoning rich stores of material as they fled north into Albania in a wheeling movement toward Adriatic sea ports.
British fliers aiding the Greeks reported "highly successful" raids on Valona, one of the main Italian sea bases in Albania, in which direct hits were scored on a "big ship," quays, docks, buildings and an airplane hangar.

Squadrons of Greek and British planes roared over Lake Ochrida, near the Yugoslav border, to bomb Italian troops and supply columns on the road between Pogradetz and Capasani, in Albania.

Intense artillery fire was heard as clearing weather brought Greek and Italian forces into sharper action near the Yugoslav frontier.

The Greeks were reported to have occupied the village of Cerova, on the right bank of the Cerova river, and were digging in along the stream—now the front line south of Pogradetz, 30 miles inside Albania.

Mussolini's high command admitted RAF bombers damaged buildings in the center and outskirts of Turin, starting a fire in a glass factory and inflicting "some casualties."

Hitler's high command acknowledged "numerous civilians were killed and wounded" and dwellings damaged by RAF raiders over Germany. Informed German quarters said British bombs fell in Berlin's suburbs, but asserted that none of the raiders reached the capital's center.

Sees Aid From U. S.
In London, Arthur B. Purvis, chairman of the British purchasing commission, returning from the United States, predicted a heavy increase in American aid to British in 1941.
"Next year, if I were sitting in Germany, I would be very worried at what is going to flow out of the United States," he said.

RUPTURED?

THE DOBBS TRUSS IS DIFFERENT!
BULBLESS — BELTLESS — STRAPLESS
No matter what truss you now wear, you owe it to yourself to see the Wonder Dobbs Truss.

- It holds like the hand.
- It gives nature a chance.
- It only touches the body in two places.
- It can be put on in 5 seconds.
- It can be worn while bathing.
- It does not strait the rupture.
- It holds muscles together.
- It is cool, sanitary.
- It is durable, lasting.
- It was patented by a sufferer.
- It's our biggest advertiser.
- It holds with a concave pad.
- It is guaranteed to hold any rupture.
- It is a modern truss.

Reasons should teach you not to place a bulb or ball in opening of rupture, thus keeping the muscles spread apart. Recommended by Doctors everywhere.

Schmidt's Job Outlook As Dizzy As His Razzle Dazzle Plays

TEXAN IS OUT AS OHIO TUTOR, SAYS JOURNAL

Jock Sutherland Mentioned for Job Along With Earl Blaik

COLUMBUS, Nov. 27.—A famed exponent of football razzle dazzle, Ohio State's Francis A. Schmidt today is the center of a coaching job puzzle as dizzy as some of his pet plays.

After seven years at the Buckeye helm, the tactician Texan will not be rehired as head football coach, according to the Ohio State Journal. Schmidt termed it a "cock and bull story."

But while university officials unanimously declared that there was no foundation for the report, none would say that he would be re-employed.

"Last Season" The Journal's story from an "unimpeachable source" climaxed a year of speculation and rumor, aired about the campus and among downtown coaches, that this would be Schmidt's last season no matter how the team finished.

And while Schmidt said he has no intention of resigning, and Athletic Director L. W. St. John and athletic board members were publicly silent on their plans, there already was talk of a new coach.

Jock Sutherland, former Pitt mentor, now coaching Brooklyn's National league play-for-pay gridgers, and Earl Blaik, who heads Dartmouth's Indians, were mentioned among Ohio's rabid fandom. Blaik was understood to have been among coaches prominently considered before Schmidt brought his aerial circus and behind-the-line legendism here from Texas Christian.

The Journal said that the 10-member athletic board probably would not meet before Dec. 7.

It was considered certain that the board would consider published reports that school politics marred player harmony, that players did not train and that there was friction on the coaching staff.

Football experts also expressed belief that Schmidt's passion for intricate plays led to subordination of training in fundamentals with disastrous results in team performance.

Since coming to Ohio State, Schmidt's teams have won 39 games, lost 16 and tied one. The Bucks tied for the Western conference title once during that period and won it last year. This year's team won four games and lost four for the worst season in 10 years.

In addition to a possible coaching shake-up, Ohio players were warned by 1941 Captain-elect Jack Stephenson that "politics, gangs, favorites and everything else have got to be forgotten" and that players who "don't give everything they've got will be kicked off the team."

Three new marks for the season were set on the Masonic alleys last night as the National league race for first two positions continued to draw closer.

Earl Grate, anchor man on the Grate Recreation five, topped Harroff's high of 250 by marking up a 253 in the first game and then went on to establish a 623 for the season's three-game high for an individual.

In taking three games from the Moose, the Gem Shoes rolled up a 2826 total for the season's five-man high, topping The News mark by eight pins. The Gems' 997 in their second game of the match is a new second-place mark for single game. Bill Shepard's 618 places him in third position for three games.

Merle White of the same team also topped the 600 mark by two pins. By dropping one game to the Masons, The News slipped another notch and now lead the Gems by four games in the league standing. The Eagles, in fourth place, gained on the third-place National Sanitary five by winning three while the latter was winning only one.

At the Grate alleys Team C took two out of three from Team B in the Trades Class league.

Dates To Be Set, Rules Drafted, at Meeting Friday Night

Dates will be set and rules formulated to govern the annual city bowling tournament at a meeting of the executive committee of the Salem Bowling association at 7:30 p. m. Friday in the Masonic temple.

This meeting has been called by President Jim Primus. In notices sent to league officials and team captains, Sec'y Bill Juergens announces that all bowlers on teams sanctioned by the city association are welcome to attend and offer suggestions to make the tournament a success.

This year's tournament will be bowled on the Masonic alleys, last year's having been on the Grate Recreation alleys.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—We're in the big city and hear Will Preston of Miami is in town. Could it be to see whether Fordham will accept an Orange bowl bid? They will, and how! Sorry we arrived too late for that grand double-feature put on by Frank Phillips and his Oklahoma Oilers. The Oilers won the basketball game, and "Uncle Frank" presided over a table of wild game from his Sooner ranch that the boys heretofore won't forget for a long time. It's a long way off, but don't be surprised if Buck Shaw pops up in Baton Rouge to take Bernie Moore's job at Louisiana State.

Herd In The Huddle

That Penn's Frank Reagan might have done much better against Michigan, if he hadn't gone into the game with a bad leg, about which the Quakers said nothing so there'd be no cries of "alibi," and that the injury was aggravated by a twisting tackle within the first five minutes of play. That Cornell started the Penn game with all six first and second stringers on the left side of the line banged up or out of it entirely. All three Penn Touchdowns went through that hole. That Frank's Schmidt was giving his Ohio Staters new plays the day before they met Minnesota.

Just a Bowl of Football

Penn. Cornell and Minnesota. All have answered with a "no." But the Eagles and the Aggies. They'd surely like to go. They'd take the bowl of Roses. Cotton, Orange, Sugar, Rice; They'd play Tennessee or Stanford. And think it very nice. Then there's Georgetown and there's Fordham.

Who would also like a game. You name the trains, they'll board 'em. Who wouldn't do the same?

Along golf's winter circuit, they are wondering whether Ben Hogan will be as tough to talk to as he was after leading last winter's money winners. Tommy Harmon, who would rather be a sports announcer than a pro football player, is booked for two air engagements this week.

Story Telling Department

Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune has one of the prize yarns of the football season. It concerns two Iowa fans who wrote Coach Eddie Anderson suggesting that, since he was shy of ends, he shift Fullback Bill Green to that position. "The Doctor" thanked them for the idea, but pointed out it usually is difficult for a man to change to an unfamiliar position. In the Wisconsin game, Green, played fullback and scored three touchdowns. The two helpful alumni saw the game, then went home and wrote:

"You go on coaching the football team, and we'll tend to our business. It was signed, 'Two of Iowa's poorest coaches.'"

CAGE PRACTICE OPENS FOR HIGH SCHOOL SQUAD

Coach Herbert Brown has Five Varsity Lettermen Returning

Opening basketball practice sessions have begun for Coach Herbert Brown's 1940-41 cage candidates. The Quaker mentor was greeted by five varsity lettermen and 12 former reserve players.

Mass workouts will continue until Brown has chosen his roster. Although having five returning varsity lettermen, the Salem coach is none too optimistic. None of these boys returning saw steady action last year.

Last year's regulars lost by graduation include Knepp, Shoe, McLaughlin, and Kleon.

A successful season for the Salem basketball team will greatly depend upon the assistance given by the returning reserve lettermen. The varsity lettermen are Cozad, Jaeger, Umberger, Ritchie, and Thomas. All but two of the boys, Cozad and Ritchie, are seniors. The reserve lettermen and numeral winners are Baillie, Arment, McGaffie, Guappone, Capel, Buchman, Culbertson, Fisher, Frost, W. Miller, Ruffing and Volio. Baillie and Arment are the only seniors in this list, which also includes three sophomores.

Toledo Leaves for Game at Portland

TOLEDO, Nov. 27.—Waite High school's football squad of 24 players and six coaches left yesterday for Portland, Ore., where it will play Grant high of that city Friday night. Waite high defeated Portsmouth high school 39 to 6 in a charity game.

PHILADELPHIA—A young assistant librarian of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania has found a draft wheel used during the Civil war. Nicholas Wainwright, who registered under the present conscription act, discovered the tin wheel in the attic of the society's headquarters.

Barker, Great "Guesspert", Makes His Final Selections

Believes Aggies Will Hurdle Jinx; Army-Navy Game Result Will Be Close With Sailors Winning; Boston College Safe

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Being the final whirl at the football guessing contest:

Thursday

Texas-Texas A. and M.—The final hurdle for the unbeaten, untied Aggies. It's a long-standing jinx, but this corner believes finally the Aggies are going to make it.

Brown-Columbia—The Lions are just about football's leading opportunists. Therefore, Columbia. South Carolina—Wake Forest—Wake Forest.

Tulsa-Arkansas—Looks like the edge belongs to Tulsa. Citadel-Davidson—Out of the back, Davidson.

Kansas-Colorado State-Kansas.

Saturday

Army-Navy—One of the Army's weakest teams, but that's no guarantee this won't develop into one of the tightest games of the year. We'll take Navy, but not by much.

California-Stanford—Last obstacle for Stanford's unbeaten, untied Indians, and it may be a tough one. Still, one vote for Stanford.

Boston College-Holy Cross—There doesn't seem to be much hope for Holy Cross.

Nebraska-Kansas State—Nebraska should clinch the Big Six crown here.

Vanderbilt-Tennessee—The Commodores won't go down without a fight, but there's no possible chance here except undefeated, untied Tennessee.

Duke-Pitt—Pitt is finishing very strong, but—Duke.

Duquesne-Carnegie—Duquesne. Fordham-New York University—Fordham.

Alabama-Mississippi State—State will need to be at its best if it wants to protect its undefeated record. Mississippi State.

Florida-Auburn—Florida. Georgia Tech-Georgia—The coin says Georgia.

Louisiana State-Tulane—Tulane. Southern Methodist-Texas Christian—Methodists.

Rice-Baylor—Out of the hat, Rice. Maryland-Washington & Lee—Maryland.

Santa Clara-Oklahoma—Santa Clara. Washington-Washington State—Washington.

Oregon State-Oregon—Oregon State.

Long-range guessing: Dec. 7, Auburn over Villanova; Notre Dame over Southern California; Texas over Florida; South Carolina over Citadel; Southern Methodist over Rice.

facilities paralyzed by sleet and ice. Storm warnings were posted along the New England coast and on the Great Lakes. The Chicago weather bureau warned shippers to prepare for 15 to 25 degree temperatures in the north and west and 25 to 32 in the south and east. Rain and sleet preceded the worst snowstorm of the season in Pennsylvania. A heavy snowfall covered New York City after alternate periods of snow and sleet. Highways along the eastern seaboard as far south as Virginia were sheathed with ice, snow or sleet. The weight of ice and snow leveled some utility lines in northern Indiana. Snow plows cleared Wisconsin highways of a four to six inch snowfall while in Michigan the snow measured up to five inches.

Wins In Recount

CANTON, Nov. 27.—A recount of Stark county's 282 precincts in the common pleas judgeship race today showed that Common Pleas Judge Frank N. Switzer of Canton had been reelected by 33 votes. Returns Nov. 5 showed that Judge Switzer had lost to C. B. McClintock by 123 votes.

Here and There About Town

O. E. S. Memorial Service

The annual memorial service of Salem chapter No. 334, Order of Eastern Star, was held at the Masonic temple last night.

Music for the service featured a vocal trio, Mrs. V. R. McBane, Mrs. G. T. Harding and Mrs. Charles Gibson.

The chapter members will hold their annual Christmas party, gift exchange and a "penny lunch" following the next regular meeting, Dec. 2.

Will Tell About Meteors

Dr. H. H. Nininger, president of the Society for Research on Meteorites, will be the guest of Kiwanis club members at luncheon Thursday in the Memorial building.

Dr. Nininger, who owns the largest private collection of meteorites in the world, will discuss his work, in which he is regarded as outstanding.

Harold M. Williams will be chairman.

Called To Lakewood

Mrs. Louis Brereton of E. State st. has received word that her grandson, Rev. Louis Brereton, who has been assistant rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church in Akron, has been called to St. Peter's church in Lakewood. The young rector is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Philip Brereton of Dayton.

Gives Apple Talk

"Apples Are Ready" was the subject of a talk by W. H. Matthews, local orchardist, before members of the Rotary club yesterday noon in the Memorial building.

A glass of apple juice was served each member. C. H. Musser acted as program chairman.

Recent Births

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meek of R. D. 2, East Palestine, are the parents of a son born last night at the Salem City hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shade, R. D. 1, Leetonia, are the parents of a daughter born last night at the Central Clinic hospital.

Plan Prayer Meeting

Steady Gleaners class of the First Friends church will hold prayer meeting at 7:45 p. m. Friday at the home of Mrs. Lena Lewis, 870 Liberty st. Transportation arrangements may be made by calling 4530.

Salem Man Injured

Elmer Taylor 27, of R. D. 2, Salem, was reported in favorable condition today in the Alliance City hospital where he was taken following the cave-in of a kiln at the plant of the Alliance Manufacturing Co. on Monday.

Eagles Convene

Salem Eagles are expected to be among those attending the eastern Ohio district meeting at East Palestine tonight. Virgil Davis of Athens, state president, is to be principal speaker.

Firemen Are Called

The fire department was called at 6:47 p. m. yesterday to the home of W. F. Newhouse, 159 S. Howard ave., where a grate mantle had caught fire.

Hospital Notes

The following have been admitted to the Salem City hospital: For surgical treatment: Leroy Hanna, Lisbon; Mrs. George Rienterth, Youngstown.

Meet At 9:30 A. M.

The Salem Girl Scout council will meet at 9:30 a. m. Thursday in the Memorial building instead of 10, the usual hour.

Continue Knitting

The Salem Recreation club will continue its knitting work at the meeting at 3:45 p. m. Thursday in the Memorial building.

Class To Meet

The Men's Bible class of the First Friends church will meet at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the home of Homer Ellyson, 793 E. Sixth st.

Wins On Recount

CANTON, Nov. 27.—A recount gave Frank N. Switzer the post of Stark county common pleas judge by 33 votes. The original count following the Nov. 5 election had given C. B. McClintock, former Stark county prosecutor, a majority of 123 votes.

Permit Revoked

COLUMBUS, Nov. 27.—The high-powered beer and wine permit of T. P. Stunhoff (244 N. Main st.) Mansfield, was revoked by the state liquor board for Sunday sales and illegal possession of whiskey. Five other permits were suspended.

declared there would be no "mass re-employment."

"It will be a slow process," one of them said. "The men will be subjected to almost as close scrutiny as when they were originally employed."

F. B. I. On Lookout

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents it was declared, will scrutinize returning workers closely to make sure that no spies affect entry into the plant among their numbers.

Attorney General Jackson and Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional committee investigating subversive activities, have charged that "Communist influences played a part in the walk-out. The charges were denied by union officials."

Hailing the settlement as serving "to smash the 50-cent minimum in the aircraft industry," Wyndham Mortimer, international UAW representative, said: "It's our first major victory in the industry on the west coast."

President Millar said:

"Most important to the public is the fact that the agreement, which includes wage increases, insures above all a peaceful settlement of any controversies which may arise. This protection is for the duration of the company's British and defense contracts."

The contract provides for a minimum wage of 62½ cents an hour for present employees.

DEATHS

JOHN DROTLEFF

John Drotleff, 53, of 755½ Prospect st., died at 1:10 p. m. Tuesday in Salem City hospital following a stroke. He had been a patient in the hospital for the last week.

Born Oct. 6, 1887, in Transylvania, Mr. Drotleff came to America in 1899. He was a member of the Emmanuel Lutheran church and the Saxon society. He was employed as a machinist by the Bliss Co.

His parents, a brother and one sister preceded him in death.

Surviving are his wife, Mary; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Lutsch, a son, John R. Drotleff of Salem; six grandchildren and one brother, Andrew, of this city.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Emmanuel Lutheran church in charge of the pastor, Rev. John Bauman. Interment will be in Grandview cemetery. Friends may call at the Stark Memorial Wednesday and Thursday evening.

Farm Hand Guilty

LISBON, Nov. 27.—John Suschensky, 51, Butler township farm hand, was found guilty yesterday of an indictment charging him with having taken improper liberties with a 7-year-old girl, at the conclusion of a two-day trial before Judge W. F. Lones. Suschensky was sentenced by the court to pay a fine of $250 and costs, and to be imprisoned in the county jail until the fine and costs are paid.

Funds for Bases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Secretary Knox announced today that President Roosevelt had allocated $50,000,000 for immediate development of a chain of air and naval bases on sites recently acquired from England in exchange for 50 old American destroyers.

Theatre Attractions

James Cagney and Ann Sheridan, who have formed a successful screen leading team in previous pictures, are teamed again in "City for Conquest", showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the State theater.

The cast includes Frank Craven, Frank McHugh, Arthur Kennedy, Donald Crisp, George Tobias, Jerome Cowan, Ella Kazan, Anthony Quinn, Blanche Yurka, George Lloyd, Joyce Compton, Thurston Hall, John Arledge, Ben Welden, Ed Keane and Joseph Crehan.

The story concerns a New York tenement girl and boy who vow to be together always, grow up and find that the bright lights and hidden power of the city have separated them. The boy, winner of the Golden Gloves championship, seems destined for a brilliant career in the ring the girl heads straight for stardom on New York's great white way. When he chooses a steadier but less glamorous job as a truck driver so that he can help his brother realize his musical dreams she goes on with a man who loves the glitter and lights.

The boy's struggle to bring her back by winning fame for himself and their final steps which bring each of them to the top, bring the story to a satisfactory conclusion.

At the State tonight only is "Christmas in July" with Dick Powell and Ellen Drew.

Showing tonight only at the Grand are "Scatterbrain" featuring Judy Canova; and "Girl from Havana" with Dennis O'Keefe and Claire Carleton.

GOP Committeeman Under Indictment

DETROIT, Nov. 27.—A special federal grand jury investigating affairs of Michigan's state government indicted Frank D. McKay of Grand Rapids, Republican national committeeman and former state treasurer, and 11 others today on mail fraud charges.

One indictment charged that McKay and 11 others used the mails to defraud the state of "the honest services of its public officials" in a $500,000 shakedown of distilleries selling their wares to the state liquor control commission.

Another charged a scheme to defraud Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., of $9,918.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisons to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

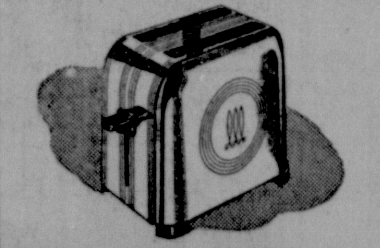

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LOGAN-WALTER BILL BOOSTED

Advocates Ask Approval Of All Changes by House

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Encouraged by a surprisingly sudden senate victory, Logan-Walter bill advocates today strove to hasten final congressional action by asking the house to accept bodily all senate changes in the measure.

Rep. Walter (D., Pa.) requested that the senate amendments be submitted to the house for approval when it reconvenes tomorrow.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley, who predicted that President Roosevelt would veto the controversial measure, said he believed the senate would sustain the President in that event.

Barkley opened the way for the bill's 27-to-25 victory in the senate yesterday when he abruptly abandoned his previous strategy of delay and said he was ready for a showdown vote.

Passed last spring by the house and subsequently revamped in some major respects by the senate judiciary committee, the measure would set up uniform standards of conduct for many quasi-judicial government bureaus, with such notable exceptions as the interstate commerce commission, trade commission, lending agencies and others.

It would broaden the base for appeals from decisions of the affected agencies, but as amended by the senate, would limit such ap-
